

May 24, 2010

- Comprehending reality beyond the senses
- All thoughts communicate
- Unseen life-forms transmit your thoughts and prayers to their beneficiaries
- The created and Creator are one
- Compassion is a natural occurrence

God loves, God illuminates, God affirms, God comforts, God inspires, God lifts up. We, the collection of all of your guides, are part of that Spirit Presence, and it is our joy and duty, willingly engaged, to serve, to enlighten, to give, to inspire each of you.

In your discussion tonight, you skirted around an issue of parallel life, parallel reality. Perhaps in our ongoing efforts to increase your understanding of your relationship to us and our relationship to you, it may be helpful for us to share some of that reality with you, for your relationship to us and vice versa, is not so beyond your capacity to grasp in its reality. You do not see us, and yet you know we are with you. You are aware of our presence, and that awareness is heightened at moments such as these. The reality of our existence beyond your normal sensitivity is unmistakable, but it is also part of a greater reality that lies beyond your current awareness.

All that exists is related to energy. You collectively, humankind, are really entities of an energetic field. Your lives have a physical component that can be observed, but your lives also have a component that cannot be easily observed. You have constructed equipment that allows you to penetrate deeper into reality than what you can see with your senses. You have the means of seeing items far smaller than what your eyes can perceive. You have the capacity to hear energy beyond what your ears and mind together can comprehend. You can smell the presence of something, and yet not see it. You can feel somehow connected to a reality that you cannot fully comprehend, and yet you know it exists. All that is created is based on the transformation of energy.

You know that much of what comprises what you see is essentially empty space, but there is much that exists that has even more empty space—the result being you cannot see, you cannot touch, you cannot hear or smell. There is nothing you can do to enhance evidence of its existence for the simple reason that those forms of energy are different from the forms that you are capable of observing.

We have alluded in the past to lives that are human-like, that are not human but nevertheless exist. It is true to say that many of these life-forms exist in the same space, as you would call it, as human beings exist, and yet are undetected. It is just because of a different manifestation of energy. Because you cannot see something, it does not follow that it cannot exist. It is also fair to say that what you see is not what exists, for you are only aware of part of what you see.

The creation that we speak of, the product of the hand of God, refers to all forms of energy, not just what you are aware of. Human energy is not the most advanced, the most sensitive, the most insightful of energy forms. This does not reduce the value of human life, but in sharing this, you must take from such information that you are part of a much larger creation, and each component of that creation is valuable. Each component serves a purpose. There is a reason why you exist. We have explained the importance of the human experience in the development of spirit, but other forms are also a part of such development.

May 24, 2010

We learn what we learn through human life, but our perspective is not suddenly all-knowing because we have experienced human life. The doors of light are not suddenly flung open and immediately wisdom results. Our development as guides includes, when necessary, human life, but we evolve through many layers. There are countless paths that promote spiritual insight and vision. The human experience is only one such path, but it is not sufficient unto itself. As a result, guides and others on the spiritual plane may experience several cycles of human life. Some guides experience one human life, supplemented by many other spirit-growth opportunities.

Every soul, every spirit, is different. Each has its own needs. The needs of one soul are no more pressing than another. The fact that they differ underscores the reality of the differing needs of human beings.

We are as we are. You are as you are. The training ground, so to speak, for one soul may be vastly different from another. That opportunity to grow comes from an engagement with spiritual energy. The human experience is one kind of spiritual energy.

From our perspective, we are aware of many unseen life-forms that share the same planet, that share the same reality. These life-forms also interact with one another. You interact with such alternative lives. How is that possible? Consider for a moment the power of thought. It was observed in your gathering that sometimes you think of someone who then appears. That is not by accident. That is synchronicity that you observe. But what is operating here? What is occurring is a type of energy that comes from merely thinking, that comes from an intentional consciousness. You are communicating although you are unaware. You are unaware because you see no recipient for that communication.

The fact is, all thoughts communicate. The fact is, you are the beneficiary of the thoughts of others. You pray for another, and you pray for the openness that another may experience. We have spoken of this often, that when you pray for another, there is benefit. There is impact, but how is that impact realized? It is realized through the unseen life-forms with different energy patterns. It is those individuals, those individual entities of a different energy, that carry the benefit of thought to another. You emit an energy, but these other life-forms serve to transmit what you send to those who can benefit.

You must remember there is no space, there is no physical space—all is a single unit. It is somewhat like reclining on a water mattress. If an individual moves, the waves are spread across the surface. What carries that motion? It is the water within. A point elsewhere on the mattress does not move merely by itself. It is this wave of energy that also exists in spirit. What carries your thoughts, what carries your prayers, are other forms of energy.

May 24, 2010

All of the energy that is created is God. When you pray for the benefit of someone on the other side of the planet, that benefit is immediate, not because God is some kind of anthropomorphic power that says in effect, "Ah, you have prayed for an individual, so I will see that that individual receives that prayer." It is not a God that somehow exists separate from the prayer, separate from you, that chooses to enact what it is that you pray for. No, it is a God that is the sum of all energy forms working in concert, enabling the waves to disseminate immediately.

God is not a human life-form that stands in judgment. God is the sum of all that is created. What is created and the Creator are a single unit. There is no separation. For that reason we can say you are never separated from God, for you can never be separated from the totality of the unit. You are part of that unit. You belong to that unit. Your energy is an essential component of that unit, that creative entity.

God is love, but what is love other than absolute unity? God is compassion, but that compassion is a part of the creation of all that is, and so compassion is a natural occurrence. It belongs to the combination of energies and is very natural. The most natural response of one individual to another is compassion. That compassion is the response of love. First comes the love, and out of the love, the response.

You see evidence of no compassion. You see evidence of human beings choosing to be alone, to be separate, but those are choices that belong to the human experience, and they in no way negate the reality of the first response being compassionate, being supportive, being loving, for compassion is not love. Compassion is loving. It is what comes from love. It is the response of love to be loving.

God responds to your prayers because God and you are the same entity. There is no difference. All that is created is divine—every human being, every energy form, seen and unseen. There are stars, solar systems—those solar systems have planets. Those planets have life-forms. Yours is not the only planet. You are not the only entity that exists with spirit. All that exists contains spirit. All is therefore sacred. All that you see and all that you perceive to be merely space between you and another—that space, that empty space is sacred. The sacredness of things seen and things unseen cannot be violated. It is a reality.

You are therefore not separated from another across the room, across the land. You are absolutely connected. We are separated from you by the divide you label as death. We are all connected; we are all combined. The connection is continuous. Nothing exists independently, and therefore you are all the keeper of spirit. You are all the house of spirit. All that you know, all that you see, all that you touch and feel and smell and hear—all is sacred.

May 24, 2010

It is our duty, our loving responsibility, to help you understand, to catch a glimpse of this sacred unity that each is a part of. Since there is no real death, there is no real birth. There is only a change of energy. What you perceive as past lives is merely another form of what is. God is not punitive, and therefore you can never accept your current life as a punishment or a making good for what was never accomplished previously. You evolve, you grow, and all that you experience is a part of that evolution, but you do not make up for what was lost, for nothing is lost. You merely evolve. You merely convert your energy from one form to another. Human life is a part of that continuity of conversion.

You are sacred because Life is sacred—Life with a capital L—which includes our life-form and yours, and many energy forms that you cannot see but that exist alongside you. You are never alone. You are never separated. You are never forgotten. You are never punished. There is never reason for guilt. There is only the purpose of hope in your lives—hope and faith that you evolve as you evolve, without comparison, without remorse, without impatience, but with an abiding peace.

We bless you with that peace. We bless you in your recognition of your unity with all. Rejoice in your visions of connection! Rejoice in your visions of belonging! And know that you and we and all that exist are a part of the totality that is God.

Amen.